Source: Daniel Bader / Android Central Are you with a new MacBook Air, MacBook Pro or Mac mini aboard the Apple M1 hype train? Or maybe you just picked up the latest 27-inch iMac. Whether you're just got a new desktop Mac or MacBook, or just looking for something new to try on your existing hardware, there are a lot of apps out there to discover. But there are 10 apps that always stand the test of time, and are necessities on every Mac, no matter who you are. Here are 10 must-have Mac apps that will make any Mac, M1 or not work better. Source: iMore Dropbox is a cloud storage service that makes it easy to back up essential documents, files, photos, videos, and other things, making it one of the most important must-have Mac apps. While your stuff is stored in Dropbox, you'll have access to the device on any other device as long as you're logged into the same account. Any changes to your files will be saved automatically, but you will also check older versions on the web interface if necessary. Everything you upload to Dropbox is encrypted, and there are also collaboration features that make it easy to share files with others. One thing I absolutely love about Dropbox is how it integrates with pretty much every other app I need, so my stuff is accessible from anywhere and in everything. A free account gives you 2GB for free (and the chance to get more space with referrals), but they have plans that start at about $11.99 for 2TB. Online backup for all your files, with integrations in almost every app. Source: iMore I'm on Twitter pretty much all day, every day. My app of choice is Tweetbot from Tapbots. The reason I use Tweetbot over any other Twitter app is because I love the interface because it's easy to use, and it offers plenty of powerful features. You quickly search for topics that interest you, filter and mute hashtags, and people who temporarily (or permanently, it's up to you), create lists, and there's support for a multi-column view. I've been using Tweetbot on my iOS and Mac devices for years - there's no other app I'd rather use. Plus, you won't see promoted ad tweets or annoying fleets. It's one of my absolute must-have Mac apps. Tweetbot has plenty of powerful features that make it the best Twitter app on Mac. Source: iMore Although I use Safari as my default browser on my Mac, it's always good to have an alternative, especially since some things don't always work well in Safari. For my alternative, I use Google Chrome. It syncs with your Google account, has numerous plug-ins and extensions to improve the browsing experience, and it works better with certain Google apps than Safari, such as Meet. Be careful with your RAM because Chrome likes to use a lot of it eventually. Chrome is an alternative browser that syncs with your Google account and has a ton of plugins and extensions. Source: iMore I have a lot going on daily, so my schedule gets really hectic at times. That's why I need a calendar. Need. To use Fantastical on my Mac. Fantastical has a wonderful interface that is easy to use, and you have different views on how to look at your calendar. It integrates with your iCloud, Google, Exchange, or local calendar, so that any changes are saved and synced automatically. The calendar list view is a great way to see what's in your schedule, and it's easy to create events with natural language input support. Fantastical also integrates with Reminders, so you can have your calendar and tasks in one place. Although it has switched to a subscription model, it's free to download and try out, and as one of our must-have Mac apps, there's no reason not to try it. Fantastical provides a wonderful interface for your schedule, and natural language input makes it easy to plan events and reminders. Source: iMore One of the most important things you do to protect yourself online is to have secure passwords. To do this, you want a good password manager, who can track your passwords and other sensitive data, while also generating randomized passwords to use. With 1Password, you can create different vaults for personal and work accounts (or whatever you need), sync your data across multiple devices (it's available everywhere) and even store things like bank details, credit card numbers, and other things that need extra security. 1Password encrypts everything so it's safe, and you don't even get in without a master password. I've been using 1Password for years, and it's an app I can't live without. If you need a great password manager, 1Password is a must-have Mac app. Generate secure and secure randomized passwords, track all your passwords and other sensitive data, and sync everything across your devices. Source: iMore Need to do a bit of hard drive cleanup? DaisyDisk is another must-have Mac app. With this app you can easily see what your hard drive is cluttering thanks to bright and colorful blocks, so you can see what takes up the most space. Remove things directly from DaisyDisk to free up space, and it all happens in an intuitive interface that's a pleasure to use. Cleaning up has never been more beautiful. With DaisyDisk, you can easily visualize what's on your hard drive and delete useless files directly through DaisyDisk's intuitive drag-and-drop interface. Source: iMore Once you start installing many apps, you'll find your Menu bar cluttered with a lot of icons. Bartender is an app that helps you clean up that Menu bar by putting unwanted icons in some kind of submenu bar. With Bartender you choose to rearrange your icons in an order that makes more sense to you, as well as choosing what's in the and what you want to hide in a secondary menu bar. Or you hide some items completely, because they are not necessary - it's up to you. This is a must-have Mac app which would be one of the first things I put on a brand new Mac. Clean up your Menu bar by and hiding menubar app icons at your discretion. Source: iMore The Spotlight Search in macOS is good, but you do so much more with Alfred. Alfred is essentially Spotlight on steroids. You do your basic search functionality, but you also create workflows to make your life easier, access your clipboard history at any time, view contact information, have app integrations, text expansion, web search, and more. You can download and use most basic features for free, so there's no reason why you should miss this must-have Mac app. Increase your productivity like never before with Alfred, and it's many magical wonders with the keyboard. Source: Pixelmator Team Whether you're an amateur or professional, you may need to do some photo editing at some point. Pixelmator Pro is one of our favorite apps to get the job done. It's a powerful photo editor that will have all the tools you need, but it's intuitive and easy to use, unlike Photoshop, which some may find intimidating. Pixelmator Pro gives you a lot of professional and non-destructive editing tools to get the best out of your photos. And image editing is enhanced by Pixelmator's machine learning, so you can easily get the absolute best-looking photos. Plus, the price is reasonable and affordable, especially compared to the competition. Pixelmator Pro provides professional tools in a simple and easy-to-use interface for everyone. Source: Bare Bones Software, Inc. If you are looking for a professional text, code and markup editor, you should download BBEdit. It is often used by web application developers, writers, and software developers who need powerful tools to edit, search, and manipulate text, code, and HTML/XML marking. Some BBEdit features include grep pattern matching, searching, and replacing in multiple files, project definition tools, function navigation, and syntax coloring for a wide range of source code languages, code folding, and more. Not sure if BBEdit is what you're looking for? The app has a 30-day trial period for you to put the app in its stride, and then you decide if you want to buy the full package, which has even more advanced features. But you also continue to use the free version of BBEdit. BBEdit is one of the best go-to apps out there for text, code and markup editing.
